EXPERIENCED MEN INTERESTED

New Establishment Will Be Credit To Business Section of City

Richmond is to have one of the most modern bakeries on the Pacific Coast, according to an announcement made by officials of the newly organized Richmond Baking and Bakery Company here, yesterday.

The baking and bakery plants formerly operated here at 1226 and 1228 Macdonald avenue and the sales department in the California market, formerly operated by Frank Ketchum, well-known local citizen, have been incorporated under the new name.

The new company has been incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000. Extensive alterations are to be made in the present baking plant and in the sales rooms.

The incorporators and stockholders in the new enterprise are men of long experience in the bakery business and according to Ketchum, will be in a position to furnish the city of Richmond with an up to date plant capable of turning out the finest kind of bakery at popular prices.

The new establishment promises to be a credit to the growing business section of Richmond.

Ketchum who will be actively connected with the new organization is about to leave on an extended trip, during which he will purchase new machinery and supplies for the company.

It is on the Gervant Ranch that the western end of the tunnel will start into the hills. This unit, it was stated yesterday, will be 2100 feet in length and eight by eight feet across the face. It will be horseshoe shape and lined with concrete. Practically a year will be required to complete this section. The contract was recently let to the T. Conolly company for $152,900.

LOCAL WHARF OFFERS MANY ADVANTAGES

Exceptional Advantages Offered For Handling of Combustible Material

ARE BEST FACILITIES ON BAY

Under Proper Lease Wharf Would Be Revenue Producer For City

(INSTALLMENT NO. 16)

No other wharf and warehouse on the San Francisco bay, possesses the advantages of the property of the City of Richmond on the water front.

The handling of combustible material which can be stored here indefinitely, and which cannot be stored on the San Francisco wharves saves the shippers thousands of dollars yearly on this class of goods.

Cars of gasoline and oil can be shipped here direct, and be allowed to remain in the warehouse, as long as desired, and then shipped by water.

To handle this class of goods at the San Francisco port, they must be taken from the factory to ship by barges, towed by tugs and allowed to remain in the stream until the ship arrives.

Tugs cost about $7.50 per hour, and rental of barges is not small. In addition to the rental there is a haul each way to the made with the barge.

All of this is eliminated at the Richmond municipal wharf. It should be a very fortunate circumstance, and the advantage should mean, that the warehouses in time should be kept well filled with goods, from which the City of Richmond would receive a very tidy income yearly for warehousing.

But such is not the case at the present time. As near as can be learned, the large profit is in the quick handling of goods, as the handling company receives the bulk of the benefits from it.

For some time about the only goods kept on storage at the wharf is fullers earth, placed there by the Standard Oil Company. It is an advantage to them, and they pay the city the regular warehousing charges, which last year amounted to over $6,000.

There is practically no other class of goods on which warehousing charges are collected, with the exception, a shipment of pig iron once and a while.

Under a proper lease, protecting every right of the City of Richmond, the municipal wharf can be a revenue producer, including all maintenance and repair charges.

With such a lease in effect, where the City of Richmond would get as just proportion of the revenues, the council at all times would have on hand money which could be used for keeping a proper depth of water in the channel.

Responsible companies stand ready to submit proposals, just as soon as the city council ask for tenders.

Faces Death For Murder In Portland

Arthur J. Cameron Arrested in Portland on Murder Charge

SENT TO PRISON FROM HERE

Was Shot By Local Officers In Exciting Chase After Robbery

Facing the gallows on a charge of murder, Arthur J. Cameron, alias William Buckley, paroled San Quentin convict, will be unable to carry out his threat to "get" all the policemen he could find in Richmond upon his release from prison.

The episode occurred about three years ago when Cameron and a companion, William Fleming, were caught in the act of looting the Seventh Street garage. They were caught by two Richmond police officers and ordered to halt.

Fleming to halt a short chase ensued, during which Cameron was shot through the face by one of the officers. His companion then surrendered without further ado. Cameron was taken to the Craven hospital where he was treated and was later removed to the county jail at Martinez.

Subsequently it was learned that the two men had staged a series of robberies before the garage looting. Immediately prior to the Seventh Street Garage robbery the men had broken into the Richmond Hardware store at Eighth street and Macdonald avenue and secured a burglar's kit.

Finally a sentence of from one to fourteen years was imposed on the men in San Quentin penitentiary. It was at that time that Cameron swore to return to Richmond upon his release and shoot every police officer that he saw.

When he was arrested Cameron gave his name as William Buckley, but from old police records it was ascertained that this was an alias and that he had a past record.

After spending a little over two years in San Quentin, Cameron was granted a parole.

Instead of coming to Richmond and endeavoring to carry out his threat Cameron headed for Portland, Oregon, with a woman he claimed to be his wife.

A short time after his arrival in the northern city a man was found murdered and the crime was traced to Cameron and the woman. The man had been bound, gagged, robbed, and beaten. The injuries inflicted resulted in his death.

After a long hunt Cameron was taken into custody and formally charged with murder. Today he is in the shadow of the hangman's noose and the Richmond Police department is free from the threats of one more criminal who seeks revenge.

Ghosts Rule Entire City

The celestial bodies held sway last night. They were ably assisted by the youth of the community who provided the ghosts, goblin and other residents of the lower regions equipped with jack-o-lanterns and various other means of illumination.

A special detail of 15 police officers patrolled the streets of Richmond all night but nothing was done to cause loss of property or damage in any way.

The youngsters conducted themselves very well, according to the police, confining themselves to dumping woodpiles, daubing paint and such tricks as to cause great grief but no damage to the persons who had their paths crossed.

Record Herald Story Finds New Collie Dog For Boy

Rayzen Van Marter, who last week mourned the loss of his collie dog "Laddie," because someone had poisoned him, is today a happy boy because through the story appearing in the RECORD-HERALD a few days ago he is now the possessor of a pure blooded collie dog.

Last Saturday when his dog was poisoned, Rayzen told his pitiful tale to the RECORD-HERALD. A lady reading about the loss of Laddie offered her dog "Buddie" to Rayzen, because she did not have a proper place to keep him.

Yesterday a letter arrived from the lady and today Rayzen is taking a run with his new dog. The letter received yesterday by Rayzen reads as follows:

Dear Rayzen:

I have read in the paper, that you'll find the answer there.

NEW SERVICE MAY INCLUDE LOCAL WHARF

That Richmond may be included in the schedule of direct steamer service between Eastbay and Sacramento River points to be inaugurated by the Southern Pacific Company was indicated last night by officials of the company. The tonnage that will be offered for this mode of shipment will in a large measure give a definite answer to the question if Richmond will be placed on the schedule was indicated.

The announcement of the new service was made yesterday by the Southern Pacific Company following receipt of the news that the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington D. C. had granted to the company permission to extend the operation of its Sacramento Boat Line to the east side of the bay.

Permission for this service was sought by the Southern Pacific Company to serve the rapidly growing market on this side of the bay principally for perishable products raised along the Sacramento river.

According to the Commission's decision the company will serve the Eastbay through wharf facilities already established in Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley Emeryville and Richmond if the service demands.

The service will be inaugurated as soon as arrangements of dockage, schedules and rates can be made.

$1,000,000 Loss Results From Flames

Fire of Unknown Origin Sweeps Entire Block In Auto Section

BURNS FOR TWO HOURS

Most Disastrous Fire In History Of Northern City

SEATTLE, Oct. 31.—One of the most disastrous fires in the history of Seattle razed a block of buildings in the auto section this evening, causing a damage estimated at more than a million dollars. Miraculously there were no casualties.

The fire started in a building on Pike street, between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues, at 6:30 p. m. and within a few minutes was a roaring inferno.

Two hours of desperate fighting on the part of city firemen brought the fire under control. Authorities so far have been unable to determine the origin of the fire.

Late tonight flames were still burning seriously, but the fire was localized and there is no further danger of spreading.

At the first height the flames leaped as high as 100 feet and were visible for many miles around Seattle.

Automobile houses which were completely destroyed included the Chandler Motor company, The Firestone Rubber company, The Miller and Norton Motor company and the Willys Overland company. Many of the companies managed to reduce their losses by removing much of their stock, when it was seen that their places were in the line of the flames.

All available fire fighting apparatus was used as the firemen had considerable trouble getting the flames under control. Fire ladders that were placed against the burning buildings were reduced to cinders as soon as they were put in place.

MINTER TAKES OAKLAND AGENCY

The Oakland is put out by the General Motors company and is of the popular prices.

SYNOPSIS

Connemara Moore promised that if she appeared at Aunt Celimena's party tonight with her hair bobbed, she would become engaged to Bingham Carrington. Otherwise she would accept Saltonstall Cabot Adams. The guests—including the two suitors—are assembled, but Connie aggravates them by wearing a headdress that conceals her auburn head. The decision must be made known before midnight or her aunt will disinherit her. And the minutes are flying by—rapidly.

"Oh, my dear Mr. Brewster, you've never known any woman except Miss Celimena, which misleads you frightfully. Of course, it's because she has decided that Connemara is so frightened now. Bingham pushed from behind by her aunt and her aunt's lawyer, she has shut her eyes, jumped over the precipice—and then—well, behold her hanging by a slender branch."

Mr. Brewster seemed unaffected by the picture. "She will have to drop before twelve o'clock," he said.

"But that's nearly three hours away," mused Miss Glenn. "And so many things can happen in three hours."

"As for instance?"

"Well, the world might come to an end at 11:30. Or Miss Celimena might weaken."

"I agree with you," said Mr. Brewster, "that those two events are likely to occur at about the same time."

"Or a beautiful young ruffian might step out of the syringa bushes and carry her off in his arms."

"I should think," said Mr. Brewster, "that those two events are likely to occur at about the same time."

"I would like to know what is under that headdress of yours."

ter, "that she would rather prefer crashing on the rocks below."

"I told you," retorted Miss Glenn, "that you had never known any woman except Miss Celimena."

Meanwhile, this good lady, along whose path in life the syringa bushes had given forth nothing but a refined fragrance, was restlessly on the prowl. The dances at Moorelands had begun at 8:30 in her youth, and they still began at 8:30 even if she alone was ready at that hour.

Usually she drifted on the fringe of the dance floor, indicating with a skillful shoulder blade and an expert eyebrow that the daughters of her old neighbors were disposing themselves in an unseemly manner. But this evening she was alive to nothing but the discomfort caused by the fact that, partly through her own unacknowledged fault, the peace of Moorelands was disturbed by the rowdy commotions of melodrama.

The heroine of this gaudy play was dancing with simple earnestness. As the orchestra paused for breath and just as the two suitors were starting to waste theirs on the hidden ears of Connemara, her aunt advanced upon her formidably, detached her from some lumber but socially negligible partner, and led her out on to the veranda.

A young and affectionate couple, who had retreated to its shadows in response to some primal instincts, scented the approach of a family scene and scuttled obligingly into the house.

Connemara, outwardly serene in the mild garb of the nun, sat on the rail of the veranda, leaned her secretive head against its weather-beaten pillar and looked out across the acres that could be hers at the drop of a hat—or at least of a bandeau, cap, and veil. The local fireflies were doing their best to make Moorelands seem festive. A mile or so away there was a faint glow in the sky. That was Stamford.

Nearer by there was an occasional twinkle in the darkness—one of the several battered farmhouses where tenants had once toiled for old Daniel Moore, but which had been taken over of late years by refugees from the pueblo cliffs of New York.

The once orthodox countryside, dotted with something like peasantry that had doffed respectful hats to young Miss Celimena as she drove smartly along the roads in her shining phaeton, was now infested with a strange riffraff of column conductors, feminist agitators, comedienne, and music critics.

These not only did doff their hats; they didn't wear any. And even Miss Celimena knew that the pretentious names which adorned their reclaimed cottages were affixed in derision of that delusion of grandeur which had possessed her revered father when, after accumulating his fortune, he turned ducal on a surprised neighborhood and named his estate Moorelands—for all the world as though it were a shooting box in Devonshire.

Thus one of these new neighbors had named his tottering cottage "The Ricketts" and another—a brilliant young Jew from Harvard—had sardonically hung out a sign which announced to the offended Miss Moore that the name of his house was "The Hebrews."

"My dear Constance," her aunt began in a tone which suggested that by "dear" she meant "expensive."

"Yes, aunt."

"You are so like your dear mother tonight. She could never merely come into a room. She always had to make what that actor friend of yours calls an entrance."

"Yes, aunt."

There was a pause. Miss Celimena broke it. "I would like to know what is under that headdress of yours."

"Thoughts, Aunt Celimena."

"What a change!" observed her aunt gloomily. "I think a penny would be an exorbitant charge for them."

Connemara chuckled. "You're quite right," she admitted cheerfully. "I was thinking as it happens about that Mrs. Buxton who got into one of your luncheons by mistake. That Mrs. Malaprop. You remember. She was the one who said her daughter had gone to a masquerade in the garb of a nun."

There was another pause—an acid pause. This time it was the old grandfather's clock in the hall which broke it. Both of them counted as its sweet bell rang ten times.

"Well," said Miss Celimena, gathering her shawl about her, "you have two hours in which to indulge yourself in this fiddle-faddle. I suppose it would be asking a good deal to expect any one of your generation to repay a lifetime of affection by a little courtesy, but it would add to my somewhat impaired enjoyment of this party if you would assure me that you intend to take off that contraption before you hear that clock strike twelve."

"I promise, aunt," she said, and added speculatively, "before I hear that clock strike twelve."

Miss Celimena's resentful skirts swished against the French window, and Connemara was alone on the veranda. The orchestra had subsided with a final snort and the only sound came from the lawn, where a sprinkler whirled in the darkness or from across the hedge where a streak of light told of some automobile heading for Stamford and New York. The night air was sweet with syringa.

And at that moment one of those cars slowed down and stopped—stopped alongside the road as if its driver had begun to have suspicions about its internals and was minded to peer under its hood. That, as a matter of fact, was just what had happened, and when young David Lacy finally straightened up he was aware that someone had stepped out of the darkness and was standing in the dusk that lay beside the path of light his lamps were making. It was a woman in white, and in a voice which he later decided was the loveliest sound he had ever heard, she spoke to him thus simply and to the point:

"If that car will run now, I think I'll go with you. Where are you going?"

"To Paris," he replied happily.

NASH

AGAIN!

Offers Greater Values

July 23rd, Nash introduced new models—by long odds the finest Motor Cars Nash ever built.

These new models represented new and original body designs, far reaching improvements in construction and notable refinements in engineering and equipment—all at far greater manufacturing costs—BUT NASH DID NOT INCREASE PRICES!

NOW!

Prices Reduced

Reductions Up to Three Hundred Dollars

The above price reductions are effective November 1st on exactly these same models.

It is possible to make such price reductions only because of the tremendous volume of sales inspired by the manifestly GREATER QUALITY and GREATER VALUE of the Nash product.

In the first three months these cars have been on the market the total sales have more than equaled one-half the sales for the entire year of 1924.

SAN FRANCISCO POLITICAL POT BOILING OVER

(By Universal Service)
SAN FRANCISCO Oct. 31.—With the municipal election slated for Tuesday, one of the most torrid political fights in the history of the city was approaching the zero hour today.

Charges and counter charges, with both sides equipped with plenty of ammunition, have marked the tactics of the candidates.

The hottest fight has centered around the supervisors, and the major issues revolve around the tax rate and the Hetch Hetchy water project.

Charging the present board of supervisors with misuse of funds, and worse, in connection with the Hetch Hetchy project, the candidates seeking to oust the supervisors whose terms have expired, term the incumbents as "the sell out ticket." Their own ticket is referred to as the "Clean up ticket" and is prepared to do much political gorging.

Mayor James Rolph, Jr., is supporting the supervisors, who are seeking re-election. Opponents are concentrating on securing the scalp of James McLeran, who, it is claimed, has cracked the whip among the supervisors in a high-handed manner. In addition to the nine supervisors to be elected, a city attorney, a public administrator and a recorder will also be chosen.

Today both sides were predicting a victory at the polls. Tomorrow will be devoted to getting the voters out to cast their ballots and to the customary lost moment broadsides.

Willys-Overland Establishes New Selling Record

FIVE STAR ACTS HEAD SHOW AT THE CALIFORNIA

Sparing no effort or expense to give its patrons bigger and better shows the management of the California Theatre takes pride in offering today's program to the theatre-goers of Richmond.

Five star acts headed by those inimitable European Clowns The Novelle Bros., will be one part of the double bill and an excellent screen feature "How Baxter Butted In," featuring Dorothy Devore and Matt Moore, with some snappy short reel combines in making a wonderful evening's entertainment.

The Great South American Illusionist and Magician Mons Justiniani and his company of assistants give the program a merry start with their intricate and intriguing stunts in sleight of hand and some disappearing cabinet tricks that are unique in their presentation.

Next on the stage come the Torrance Sisters two of America's greatest juvenile musicians who specialize on Piano and Saxophone. Theirs is an entertaining as well as a clever performance.

Joe McGinty, and two dainty Misses, offer a revue of Distinction, pretty costumes, a gorgeous stage setting and some real talent makes their singing and dancing playlet a thing of beauty.

"One of the Four Horsemen" is Ambassador Crowley. The great typical talker and political stump orator has a fund of merry chatter, interspersed with a timely story. His humor is infectious and his personality breezy and likeable.

However the star acts are The Novelle Brothers with their violin acrobatics, they are sure to take the house by storm.

The "want ad" department of a large cosmopolitan newspaper with its rush and bustle—complete in every tiny detail—furnishes the setting for the new Warner Classic of the Screen, "How Baxter Butted In." Contrary to popular belief, the "want ad" department in "How Baxter Butted In" is not the cut and dried emporium of advertisements, but rather the highly amusing background for an even more amusing drama that envelops Henry Baxter, a stammering, bashful misfit, and Beulah Dyer, a delicious miss who is the stenographer of gum-chewing fame. Henry is so shy that he spends most of his time day-dreaming about himself acting the hero in adventure after adventure, but in real life is too tongue-tied to ask Beulah to marry him.

The major roles of Henry and Beulah will be interpreted by Matt Moore and Dorothy Devore, both of high standing in the movie world. Matt Moore's hesitant comedy has always proved a cure for the blues, while Miss Devore's fame in Christie comedies has reached from coast to coast. Ward Crane and Wilfred Lucas will play roles of considerable importance, while Adda Gleason, Turner Savage, Virginia Marshall and the dog Cammie complete the cast that Warner Brothers has chosen to enact "How Baxter Butted In," which was adapted for the screen by Julien Josephson.

Other features on the same program include Cliff Bowes and Virginia Vance in the hilarious comedy "Dog Daze"; "Kinograms," world news events; Carl Richard's California Orchestra; Larry Canelo at the huge organ.

Well Known Stars
Featured in Film
At The Richmond

It is doubtful that if ever before such an array of funsters has been assembled in one cast as in "Second Youth." The producers have been lavish in this respect to say in the least. In addition to Alfred Lunt and Mimi Palmer there is to be seen at the Richmond Theatre today, Walter Catlett, famous comedian of "Sally," Herbert Corbell, long the mainstay of the Broadway farce, Jobyna Howland, chief laugh-maker of David Belasco's "The Gold Diggers" and Winifred Allen, the well-known comedienne. In addition to the laugh producers the company includes the talented Lynn Fontanne, perhaps the foremost of the younger actresses of the day, Faire Binney, starred in many pictures, and Hugh Huntly, filmdom's fashion plate.

The story is well conceived for laughing purposes and concerns a young silk salesman of more than the usual good looks who fight shy of all women. But the girls won't let him alone. One young woman who is much put out by the fact that men can go around flirting with salesgirls and stenographers to their heart's content without arousing much adverse comment, decides to play around a little herself. So she picks out the silk salesman because he looks harmless. A series of complications result which, while fragile to the actual participants, are extremely funny to behold.

If you like to laugh while watching a screen play, be sure to include "Second Youth" in your cinema schedule for today.

Other features on the same program include "The Love Bug," an "Our Gang" comedy, "Kinograms," world news events.

HUDSON-ESSEX AVAILABLE TO WIDER CIRCLE

Hudson and Essex cars were substantially reduced in prices in an announcement to the public last week by J. P. Strom, dealer, for the Bay region area. No comment was made with the reduction, on the Hudson-Essex theory that the public is more interested in the fact than in explanations.

But the presumption in motor circles was that it is a further step in the aggressive Hudson-Essex program of making their cars available to a still wider circle of buyers.

Along with the reduction in the list price came cuts also in war taxes and other expenses, so that the delivered prices in this city are now even more favorable than the mere reduction in list price would have effected.

"Now the question among automobile men," said Strom, "is how does Hudson do it? The public has seen Hudson-Essex make this and other price announcements when least expected. The buyers are asking what there is different about Hudson-Essex manufacturing and selling methods which have made these cuts possible."

"The answer is this: No one method or stunt either in manufacturing or selling can be held responsible. Rather, there is a general co-operation all along the line to make the cars as carefully and as economically as possible, and to merchandise them to the public in the same way."

"Of course Hudson-Essex has basic advantages in being the largest manufacturer of six cylinder cars in the world and in being the greatest car specialists, with over 95 per cent of the volume in this type of business. But these advantages are augmented by so many detailed methods that the reason is highly complicated and many-sided."

"The theory in very department of Hudson-Essex business is that the cars must be continued as 'The World's Greatest Values'—with this phrase considered as no mere generality, but as a truth fully backed by facts."

BIG PRICE CUT IS ANNOUNCED FOR NASH CARS

The Nash model cars that were introduced on the market July 23, last, by the local dealer, Frank A. Scholes, 1127 Macdonald avenue, have had a reduction in price up to $300 which will be effective today.

The great volume of sales transacted by the Nash Motor company during the last three months makes this substantial cut possible. During the last three months the total sales of the company have equaled more than one half of the sales for the entire year of 1924.

GRAY ATTACKS FIGURES OF KEY SYSTEM

In making his attack on the application of the Key System Transit company for higher fares, City Attorney Leon Gray of Oakland, states he has uncovered two items totaling $7,000,000 he is attempting to prove, were added to the valuation figures for the purpose of "swelling."

Gray elicited the information while examining C. C. Vargas, comptroller, that $5,000,000 has been included in the valuation of the assets but it is not included in the capitalization. The remaining $2,000,000 is said to have been the increase in valuation over that given the Interstate Commerce Commission two years ago. The hearing will be continued Tuesday.

DONNELLY TO BE END MAN

This year's Key System employee minstrel show will have Charles F. Donnelly, superintendent of the northern division, as an end man. The show will be presented on November 4 and 5 in the Oakland auditorium. The first part will be a minstrel entertainment and four specialty acts will be included in the latter part. Eddie Burke, producer of last year's show will be in charge. The tale is drawn from every division of the company.

Chevrolet Chief Pleased With Coast Conditions

Factory executives are always glad when duty calls them to the Pacific Coast for the can expect to find sales booming and business conditions generally good, according to officers of the Monett Motor Co. here.

R. K. White, sales executive of the Chevrolet Motor company who is now visiting on the coast, finds conditions even better than he had expected with Chevrolet leading the Coast field by a wide margin and sales booming from the Mexican border to the Canadian line.

"There is no doubt in my mind that the close attention to details given the design and construction of Chevrolet is appreciated by owners of the new Series 'K' Chevrolet," says White. "Of course the average owner cannot know to what great length factory engineers and production managers really do go in turning out a quality car, but they at least can see how carefully the screws are inserted in the door hinges of the Fisher bodies used on all Chevrolet enclosed cars; they can see the finished facings of the doors, the fit of the windows and the neatness and quality of the upholstery and the beautiful and lasting Duco finish. They can also appreciate the tremendous power available in the motor and the softness of the disk clutch."

"These and many other quality features have made our owners real boosters and leadership here on the Coast, as well as elsewhere in the United States, can be attributed largely to the good words that these owners have passed along to their friends regarding Chevrolet."

"I only wish that every motorist could make a trip through one of our seven big factories. Such a trip would show him not only the fine qualities that he can see on the surface, but would let him in on the secrets of body and chassis construction that he could otherwise only guess at through the sturdy performance of his car, its easy handling and its wonderful wearing qualities under the most severe operating conditions."

White will probably remain on the Coast for several weeks and expects to visit as many of the business centers of the territory as his comparatively limited time will permit. He is making his headquarters at the offices of F. N. Coats, regional sales manager at the Oakland Chevrolet factory.

Terminating her fortnights vacation in Los Angeles, Mrs. E. C. Crane has returned to her home at 559 Hayes avenue. Mrs. Crane is the wife of a local men's furnishing merchant.

Oregon made its only scores in the first half and held the Cards to two touchdowns but they weakened in the final periods. Hyland made a 70 yard run.

POMONA FIGHTS
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—A crowd of less than 12,000 saw the Golden Bear win 27 to 9 from Pomona today. Andy Smith left the winning of this game in other hands while he took a half dozen of his stars and journeyed to Palo Alto to see the Cards perform. Pomona was never given a chance to win but they fought like tigers, once going to the 20 yard line.

SAINTS VICTORS
BERKELEY, Oct. 31.—Slip Madigan's Saints had little difficulty in taking a 28 to 0 game from the southern branch of the University of California here this afternoon. Slip's Phoenix did not display much inside football but plugged along keeping the southern a safe distance from the goal and running up a satisfying score from time to time.

GRANGE HITS STRIDE
Harold "Red" Grange, all-American halfback carried the ball 36 times in the game with Penn yesterday and averaged more than 10 yards to the try, running up a total of 363 yards. This is the first time Grange has hit his stride this year. Illinois upset the dope in large quantities by sending Pennsylvania back east under a 24 to 2 defeat.

WANTS $50,000
NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Harry Greb wants $50,000 for another bout with Mickey Walker, his persistent challenger. Greb is rather peevish at Tex Rickard who gave him the go-by because of the large sum of money desired for his services against Walker. Tex got his lesson with Willis and Ernie when he failed to realize anything like he expected.
